

analyzed the statistics given out by the central bank, the finance ministry, and the planning and budget ministry, reveal that the country is undergoing a process of accelerated disintegration.

The per capita industrial gross national product for the first five years of de la Madrid's government registered an annual 2.3% decline. The value of total production fell 8.2% in 1983, and another 5.7% in 1986, something not seen since 1940. The physical volume of industrial production, even if it grows 4% this year, will not surpass 1978 levels. Central bank claims of a 4% increase in manufacturing production in the first half of 1987 are provably purely for export, pure looting.

In other words, the economy that supplies the internal market will continue at zero growth, or worse. The new "anti-inflationary" plan, which would finance the import of consumer goods, and not durable goods to supply industry, will assure the absolute denationalization of the economy by simultaneously stripping it of both its industrial infrastructure and its food-producing capacity.

And, with the exhaustion of its international reserves through a combination of increased debt service and this newest "anti-inflationary" strategy, Mexico's economy will reach rock-bottom—neither industry, nor employment, nor production.

I Speak Spanish like a diplomat!®

What sort of people need to learn a foreign language as quickly and effectively as possible? Foreign service personnel, that's who. Members of America's diplomatic corps are assigned to U.S. embassies abroad, where they must be able to converse fluently in every situation.

Now you can learn to speak Spanish just as these diplomatic personnel do—with the Foreign Service Institute's Programmatic Spanish Course. You'll learn Latin American Spanish recorded by native speakers.

The U.S. Department of State has spent thousands of dollars developing this course. It's by far the most effective way to learn Spanish at your own convenience and at your own pace.

The course consists of a series of cassettes and accompanying textbook. Simply follow the spoken and written instructions, listening and repeating. By the end of the course you'll be learning and speaking entirely in Spanish!

This course turns your cassette player into a "teaching machine." With its unique "programmatic" learning method, you set your own pace—testing yourself, correcting errors, reinforcing accurate responses.

The FSI's Programmatic Spanish Course comes in two volumes, each shipped in a handsome library binder. Order either, or save 10% by ordering both:
