

EIR Contents

Interviews

64 Faris Nanic

The new chief of staff of Bosnia's President Izetbegovic, formerly spokesman for the Defense Ministry, talks to EIR about the need to "ignite the engine of our reconstruction."

Book Reviews

72 Parody of J. Edgar in the White House

Unlimited Access: An FBI Agent Inside the Clinton White House, by Gary Aldrich.

Departments

80 Editorial

Britain's war against Ireland.

Photo and graphic credits: Cover, Alan Yue. Pages 10, 74, EIRNS/Stuart Lewis. Pages 11-55 (graphics), EIRNS. Page 56, Virginia State Police. Page 64, EIRNS/Christopher Lewis.

Correction: On p. 28 of our last issue, Figure 1 should have included the size of the U.S. labor force as of March 1996. The total labor force was 133.7 million, of which 34.7 million were employed in productive occupations and infrastructure, and 98.9 million in "overhead."

Economics

4 It's not the stock market, but the whole shebang

Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. tells a seminar in Washington, D.C. that the wild swings in the stock market indexes are a symptom of the underlying instability of the world banking system.

6 Swedish conference: Win the war on drugs

Sweden has taken leadership in trying to make its nation drug-free, but international collaboration is essential to win the war.

7 Currency Rates

8 Business Briefs

Special Report

10 Britain's 'Dope, Inc.' grows to $521 billion

Dennis Small refutes the defeatism which says the war on drugs can't be won, and announces the forthcoming new edition of Dope, Inc., the battle manual to put the drug cartel out of business for good.

15 Cocaine: Production set for a new takeoff stage

19 Marijuana: a $150 billion chunk of Dope, Inc. production

25 Heroin: Britain's Opium Wars—two centuries, and going strong

32 Synthetic drugs: Pharmacological 'revolution' sweeps Europe, America

35 The British oligarchy's global drug money-laundering machine