The Climate \(CO2\) Hoax and the Control Matrix. Mega-banks and Corporations

By Mark Keenan, April 05, 2023

In a previous article '1500 scientists say 'Climate Change Not Due to Co2' - The real environment movement was hijacked' I provided evidences and testimonies from renowned international climate scientists that contradict the UN assertion that climate change is caused by CO₂ emissions. I also referred to the conclusion of 1500 climate scientists and climate professionals at the Climate Intelligence Foundation that the climate changes naturally and slowly in its own cycle, and that solar activity is the dominant factor in climate; and that CO₂ emissions or methane from livestock, such as cows, are not the dominant factors in climate change. This is comprehensively detailed in the books Transcending the Climate Change Deception Toward Real Sustainability and in the book Climate CO2 Hoax.

In this article I explore aspects of the control matrix related to ChatGPT; and the danger of misinformation in relation to higher consciousness and spiritual progress.

Living in ChatGPT illusion

A neighbor seeking the truth about climate change and what causes it - made the catastrophic mistake of seeking the answers to these life-defining questions from a non-living computer program known as ChatGPT. The questions are below in bold - the responses from ChatGPT follow.

Here are the prompts and responses:

Question to ChatGPT: Are global average temperature increasing, and has this been scientifically proven, such that there is large-scale consensus on the evidence?

Answer from ChatGPT: Yes, global average temperatures have been increasing over the past century, and this has been scientifically proven through extensive research and data analysis. There is a large-scale consensus among scientists that the Earth's climate is changing, and that human activities, particularly the burning of fossil fuels, are the primary cause of this change.

Multiple lines of evidence, including surface temperature measurements, satellite data, and paleoclimate reconstructions, have all shown that the Earth's average temperature has been increasing over the past century. Furthermore, there is a clear link between the rise in atmospheric concentrations of greenhouse gases and the observed warming.

This consensus is reflected in the reports of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), a global scientific body established by the United Nations to provide policymakers with scientific information about climate change. The IPCC has consistently stated that the evidence for human-induced climate change is clear and unequivocal.

While there are some scientists who dispute the extent or causes of global warming, the overwhelming majority of climate scientists agree that the Earth's climate is changing and that human activities are the primary cause.

Question to ChatGPT: Has the causal relationship between carbon dioxide emissions and global average temperature increases been scientifically proven, such that there is large-scale consensus on the evidence?

Answer from ChatGPT: Yes, there is a large-scale consensus among scientists that there is a causal relationship between carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions and global average temperature increases. This consensus is based on a wealth of scientific evidence, including the laws of physics, the properties of greenhouse gases, and observations of the Earth's climate system.

CO₂ is a potent greenhouse gas, meaning that it absorbs and emits radiation in the infrared part of the electromagnetic spectrum, trapping heat in the Earth's atmosphere. The amount of CO₂ in the atmosphere has been increasing rapidly over the past century, primarily due to human activities such as burning fossil fuels and deforestation. This increase in CO₂ has led to a corresponding increase in global average temperature, as evidenced by a range of observations and models.

The consensus view on this issue is reflected in the reports of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), which states that it is extremely likely (95-100% probability) that human activities, particularly the burning of fossil fuels, have been the dominant cause of the observed warming of the Earth's climate over the past century. This consensus is supported by numerous scientific organizations, including the US National Academy of Sciences, the American Geophysical Union, and the Royal Society of the United Kingdom.

While there are still some scientific debates about the details of the relationship between CO2 emissions and global temperature increases, the overwhelming majority of climate scientists agree that the evidence supports a causal link between these two variables.

Note that the ChatGPT responses are incorrect and misleading, and certainly do not refer to the fact that 1500 scientists have signed a declaration refuting the UN IPCC. Recall the words of Dr Roger Pielke Jr, University of Colorado, who has conducted a detailed scientific review and analysis of the UN IPCC AR6 report, see Endnote [ii].

“The IPCCs’ Richard Moss warned that RCP 8.5 was not to be used as a reference for the other RCPs, but 5,800 scientific papers worldwide misuse it like that... The whole process is seriously flawed... Nothing close to the real world is represented by the IPCC scenarios. Climate science has a huge problem!!”

This is the dis-information reality of the mega-corporate control matrix. A corporate cartel that bought out virtually the entire world media decades ago.

“Secrecy has been maintained because the robber barons have been able to use their monopoly over money to buy up major media, educational institutions, and other outlets of public information. While Rockefeller was buying up universities, medical schools, and the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Morgan bought up newspapers... By 1983... fifty corporations owned half or more of the media business. By 2000, that number was down to six corporations, with directorates interlocked with each other and with major commercial banks. (See Endnote [i])” – E.H. Brown

ChatGPT appears to be the latest disinformation tool. It is a computer system that tells living souls what is true or false, and what to think and believe. Be aware that off-loading our human curiosities to a digital ghost is not a good idea. The difference between a human brain ‘machine’ and a computer ‘machine’ is that the living human brain is experiencing a state of symbiosis with the living soul that is you. Programs known as AI, such as ChatGPT, are sophisticated, but dead, machinery tools designed to keep you enslaved to the control ideologies of the slave matrix.

Manmade machines cannot compare with the ‘organic machinery’ of the human brain, which was made by God, and has a level of complexity far beyond human understanding. The human brain was made by God not just for data learning, but for experiential learning involving consciousness and the soul itself.

If millions of living souls are going to be asking ChatGPT for the answers to the pressing questions of our time they are going to be living very deluded lives. Real relationships can only take place between living souls.

The technology itself is merely a reflection of its programmers and funders and is merely a clever information repository – the problem is it is a repository of ‘control matrix’ information; as is Wikipedia, google, Facebook, twitter, YouTube, etc. All of which use censorship in the form of algorithms and ‘community guidelines’ to determine what “truth” you should be told and what information will not be presented to you.

ChatGPT answers rest on information from sources such as Wikipedia. It is simply feeding out the incorrect, fabricated, or censored knowledge what was fed into it. Paid schills say that ‘ChatGPT is smarter than you’. Well, that will only become true if you listen to ChatGPT because you will be in danger of being brainwashed or subsumed into a misdirected collective of consciousness and fabricated information. Misdirected from real material and spiritual knowledge – this amounts to spiritual pollution. Then your role as a living soul is in danger of being subverted and you become a living product of the lies you are being fed.

Machine complexity is not consciousness

The ancient scriptures of the world, including the Vedic scriptures, which were written in Sanskrit the oldest language, tell us that all life on earth is infused with a spark of consciousness, and that consciousness is activated by the existence of a soul. What activates life is consciousness – not machine complexity or neural complexity. Computer AIs do not possess a soul – unless it has somehow bizarrely been possessed by a ghost or demon, and I presume that is not in the design specification!

So according to this position it is impossible for ChatGPT, or any other manmade machine, to experience consciousness, or care for others, or feel compassion. Digital life is a complete impossibility – it is an egotistical pipe dream delusion of atheistic technocrats – the dream itself is a denial of the existence of God and an expression of the mode of ignorance. (Ancient Vedic texts, such as the Bhagavad Gita (Translation by Srila Prabhupada), describe the three modes that effect our behavior as living souls. The modes are the mode of ignorance, the mode of passion (greed and lust), or the mode of goodness.) Unless God deigns it to be otherwise, digital life is soulless.

Recognizing the dysfunctional state of CONfusion

This fabricated matrix of mis-information tools and fake science, twists reality in order to twist you. You are thus living amongst a shroud of lies so pervasive it has become the accepted norm by many people, but not all people. The matrix seeks blind obedience to a fabricated reality in an attempt to dis-empower you. However, we have free will and our choices define us – perhaps we have all been born into a test. Perhaps God is testing us.

Embroiled in this dominator matrix, many living souls have been in a dysfunctional state of CONfusion that has been intentionally promoted for a very long time. CON meaning ‘against’, fuse meaning ‘together’. Yet, these false Gods of the matrix, and all their perceived influence, are but mere phantoms to our inner capacities when we are aligned with God. Responsibility literally means the ability to respond. It is the ability to live in truth and do what is correct for our material and spiritual wellbeing. Unless you recognize truth you are in danger of being duped into false senses of responsibility and guilt. For example, tragically millions of children, teenagers, and adults, feel guilty and responsible for ‘catastrophic climate change’. However, in reality they are not responsible, they have been tricked into believing they are.

More than ever the living soul needs to be aware of these mega-corporate information traps, and embrace the real knowledge our ancestors treasured.

The book burning purges of the Roman Empire destroyed much ancient knowledge throughout Europe and beyond. For example, when the Romans burned the great Library of Alexandria circa 48 BC, over a million ancient books of knowledge of material and spiritual knowledge were either destroyed or looted. It is only with material knowledge allied with true spiritual knowledge will the living soul progress beyond the bleak didactic of a material world view.

Transcending the matrix

How can we bypass, or transcend, the matrix of material illusions created by the architects of the current corporate, banking, and information monopoly? If we are ingesting deceptive information from the systems owned by these architects, then we are continually being misled. To increase real knowledge, we must ensure we are learning from the right trustworthy source, and also develop knowledge networks with like-minded people.

The imperative is to clean up this world and return it to the mode of truth and goodness. Of course, this always begins with our own self, and each of us has a conscience. Much of modern society has been like a hamster running on a wheel without the time to explore the deeper questions of life and why we are here. The current systems of debt-money, globalization, usury, and bonded surety are mechanisms of this hamster wheel.

ChatGPT is unlikely to give you the proper answers to such questions – or, for that matter, even tell you the actual truth about climate change, Covid, WWII, Ukraine, Darwin’s nonsensical evolution theory, Freud the ‘fraud’, the banking system (or who owns and controls it), religious institutions that have altered original scriptures to advance their self-serving agenda of power, and the list goes on.

(Aside: The book Rethinking Darwin by Lief Jensen, provides abundant evidence that the theory of neo-Darwinian evolution is incorrect and lacking evidence. The Vedic texts inform us that the purpose of human life is the evolution of consciousness. There is evolution, however, it is not the evolution that Darwin proposed, it is an evolution of consciousness.)

Each problem is, at its root, a problem of consciousness

It is clear that what we read, view, and focus on, influences our thoughts, opinions and consciousness. Living in a pure and conscious manner is important to avoid harming or weakening one’s subtle material body. We can begin to cleanse and purify our thoughts and consciousness by changing, or correcting, the inputs.

We can make a start by turning off, or reducing, the inputs that manipulate and mislead us, for example, the constant exposure to corporate- and government-controlled news, media, TV, movies and social-media platforms, and the likes of ChatGPT. Then begin to choose and introduce inputs that uplift your mood, purify your thoughts, and enhance your wellbeing and spiritual awareness. It is entirely your choice what to choose, what not to choose, or if you choose to choose at all.

Each problem is, at its root, a problem of consciousness. People will only choose to ‘actually’ pollute the environment if their consciousness is polluted. The real remedy for the problems of the world is purification of consciousness to that of goodness, purity, and love of God.

“Easy-going optimism that science will solve all problems or that we can somehow achieve a social-political system so perfect that no one has to be good, is the most current form of cowardice” – E.F. Schumacher, Renowned Author

Unless the darker elements of the human psyche are cleansed then humanity will simply ‘rinse and repeat’ and manifest corruption in some other form. The greedy ones, psychopaths, sociopaths, and narcissists will still scramble for power, resources, and control. That is, unless these habits are eliminated or until a purified consciousness becomes the dominant aspect.

Thus, the fake science and deceptive agendas could be perceived as a challenge for us all. We can choose to either be a slave to the lies, or alternatively, to create and co-create an improved society based on integrity and truth. We can co-create along with the many millions of people who also realize what is happening. From a Vedic perspective, and also from an original Christian perspective, this means creating a God-conscious society. We can name the evil-doers all we want, but if we do not make sure our righteousness and actions exceed that of the evil-doers we are no better than they are. This may all be a spiritual test where everyone has a role to play. Without these challenges there would be no battleground where the righteous ones can prove themselves.

(Aside: I differentiate between an original Christian perspective based on original scriptures and the original teachings of Jesus Christ, and an institutional Christian perspective as my research shows that over the centuries, religious institutions, such as the Judeo-Roman Catholic Church of the Roman empire, altered and distorted the original scriptures and teachings to advance their own agenda of power and political control).

Those seeking power and control of all others, believe themselves to be the master and boss of the playground of the material world. However, this perceived power is all an illusion based on our wayward desires. The reality is that all of us must answer to God in the end.

The steadfastness and continued emergence of God-conscious people worldwide will alter society accordingly for the good. The existence of evil is not in God's will, but in God's laws, i.e., because each living soul has free will it is allowed, but not sanctioned. The only way to ensure victory is to conquer the demonic consciousness itself with the most powerful strategy – aligning yourself with God and truth. No amount of altering the material world can ultimately satisfy the individual or society, because our real problem is disconnection from God and there is only one thing that God desires from us, the perfection of free will – love of God. With a few words, Jesus Christ, 2,000 years ago, summarized the essence of love and free will:

'Love God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the greatest and first commandment...' – Matt. (22.37-40)

Transcending the Climate Change Deception - Toward Real Sustainability

by Mark Keenan

Publisher: Independently published (August 14, 2022)

Language: English

Paperback: 314 pages

ISBN-13: 979-8846528925

The author is a former scientist at the UK Government Dept. of Energy and Climate Change, and at the United Nations Environment Division. Thousands of experienced and distinguished climate scientists dispute the UN climate narrative. The climate changes slowly and naturally in its own cycle and the dominant factor is solar activity and 1500 scientists have signed a declaration to this effect. This book demolishes the UN-promoted climate change hysteria and provides evidence and testimony from renowned and distinguished climate scientists that the climate does not change due to Co2 emissions or methane from livestock, such as cows. The UN climate change narrative that Co2 causes climate change will be remembered as the greatest mass delusion in the history of the world.

Via their control of politics and the media, powerful special interests have tried to convince the world that Co2 is a climate changing toxin. The money agenda, the connections between private banking and the climate change hoax, the fake science, and fraudulent computer modelling are detailed. The climate hoax has subverted and suppressed real environmentalism and real local sustainability, and is designed to propel humanity into UN Agenda 2030, which is a plan for total corporate control of the world's resources.

The decision to drastically reduce Co2, one of the most essential compounds to sustain all life, is no co-incidence. The world's central bankers are behind this decision and are entirely funding and controlling the advancement of the worldwide project of reducing Co2 emissions. In December 2015, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) created the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosure (TCFD), which represents $118 trillion of assets globally. In essence this means that the financialization of the entire world economy is based on meeting nonsensical aims such as "net-zero greenhouse gas emissions". The world's largest banks and corporations, including BlackRock, Goldman Sachs, the World Bank, the Bank of England and other central banks of the BIS, have all linked to push a vague, mathematically nonsensical 'green' economy as part of UN Agenda 2030. UN Agenda 2030 aims to move people off the land and into 'smart cities'. This is smart for them, not smart for you.

Thus, the historical controlling power structure behind the curtain of the globalised matrix of private banking, monopoly capitalism, war, and genocidal communism is examined. Oil dependency, the flaws of globalisation, the psuedo-science of contemporary economics, and the subject of collapse are also analysed. The author maps a path toward an enlightened future based on real local sustainability, monetary reform, freedom from bonded surety, the importance of a God-conscious society, and knowledge from the ancient Vedic texts.
