Ruling Elite Grows Desperate to Destroy Trump's Presidential Bid

In the wake of the November 8 elections, it is important to reflect upon the prospects of a Trump presidency

This presentation examines why the globalists dread Trump as president. Like every human, Trump possesses his share of petty flaws and weaknesses. But the wave of exaggerated dispersions and insults slung on him say more about the slingers than about Trump. With this piece I'm neither advocating nor endorsing Donald Trump for president. Its aim is to simply examine the extreme reactivity coming from the elite to desperately plant another puppet as president fearing that an outsider of the Trump order could lead to a national uprising and revolt against globalism's tyranny. Thus, it's of critical importance for the American electorate to not be blindsided by the over-the-top cheating and nefarious barrage of subversive tactics being executed at the feverish, frenzied pace as we head toward home stretch to Election Day.

Donald Trump is no saint. He was born with a silver spoon to a real estate developer father. He has enriched himself engaging in high profile real estate deals in New York and Atlantic City, and by the very nature of his profession as a real estate tycoon owning casinos, he has allegedly been involved in some shady deals.

How much of his past will be investigated and uncovered in the coming weeks and months as he closes in on a possible GOP nomination for president remains to be seen.

Forget all the labels... Republican, Democrat, conservative, liberal, left, right. In 21st century American politics, they're all totally non-relevant, meaningless sleight of hand, divide and rule weapons used by a handful of controlling families who've owned this planet for centuries with Europe's Rothschilds and America's Rockefellers most readily coming to mind. These ideological tags and labels have been an extremely effective means of neutralizing any and all potential threats from ever uniting to challenge or oppose the status quo power monopoly maintaining absolute control over planet earth increasingly during this last century. During the Great Depression nearly a century ago the globalist bankster J.P. Morgan boasted:

When through a process of law the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and more easily governed by the strong arm of the law applied by the central power of leading financiers. People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. This is well known among our principle men now engaged in forming an imperialism of [crony] capitalism to govern the world. By dividing the people we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us.

Like the Democrats and Republicans forever squabbling to get nothing done in Congress as passable legislation that actually benefits the American people and not the special interests they're beholdng to. Since the US Supreme Court's Citizens United decision six years ago, every powerful lobby group like AIPAC or every billionaire globalist can legally bribe politicians with unlimited campaign donations to vote according to their personal interests rather than the interests of the voting constituents. The Princeton-Northwestern study a couple years ago made it official, confirming that the United States federal government operates as an oligarchy, no longer the democratic republic historically taught in Civics 101.

The last US president that seriously threatened the ruling elite's status quo was John F. Kennedy and Washington insiders within the shadowy government elite assassinated him and ever since have been firmly in control of America. But the turning point for the elite actually arrived exactly a half century earlier than 1963 with the passing of the Federal Reserve Act, followed eight years later by the creation of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), the raw power driving the aggressively imperialistic US foreign policy. Virtually every president over the last century has either been a blue blood Anglo-elitist CFR man, a Yale Skull and Bones-er or high degree Freemason, and if the president wasn't any of the above, you can bet the vast majority of his key cabinet posts were filled with these elitist members especially heading the Defense, the Treasury and State Departments.

A covert group of shadowy figures have virtually owned the US government for a very long time. We just know more about them now than ever before as the elite's designated handlers of America's top elected leaders. The elite's favored candidate for president this year Hillary Clinton (with Bill and Chelsea CFR members) unabashedly disclosed who she receives her marching orders from when she addressed the CFR fresh off its second branch office opening in Washington in 2009 after founding member the Rockefellers had donated the land and building to the CFR in 1921 as its original New York headquarters. Here are Hillary's exact words:

I am delighted to be here in these new headquarters. I have been often to, I guess, the mothership in New York City. But it's good to have an outpost of the Council right here down the street from the State Department. We get a lot of advice from the Council, so this will mean I won't have as hard a go to be told what we should be doing, and how we should think about the future.

But business as usual amongst the most powerful people on earth appear to be seriously disrupted should anyone but Hillary become the next US president. This year's meteoric rise of populist presidential candidate Donald Trump as the eccentric, unpredictable, cantankerous outsider as of late graphically illustrates the desperate dynamics currently in play threatening to potentially derail the globalist New World Disorder agenda. Recent news events nakedly reveal the elite's lowdown subversions to defame and undermine Donald Trump's increasing popularity amongst the American disenfranchised have-nots. Regardless of his enormously vain ego, vitriolic remarks and ambitious thirst for fame and power, Trump poses a serious threat to the current power broking neocons entrenched in DC as the elite's chosen puppets fast implementing its design for one world government tyranny.

Because Trump's run for presidency in 2012 was viewed as laughable political theater that abruptly went nowhere, his candidacy this year was customarily dismissed by elitists as yet more court jester buffoonery, totally miscalculating Trump's potential surge to steal their thunder. With Super Tuesday's results now in, Trump the jester is Trump the most probable Republican nominee inasmuch as he's on pace to legitimately capture enough party delegates to numerically secure the nomination prior to the convention just four months away. NYT has him with 673 delegates to Cruz' 410.

Meanwhile for the first time, Economist/YouGov Poll indicates the majority of Republican Americans at 53% now favor Trump over any other elitist club GOP candidate. The latest poll out of New York state has Trump winning 65% of New York Republicans' support to Cruz' 12%. Like no other presidential contender or front-running party favorite in modern history, Donald Trump singlehandedly threatens to create such havoc within the plutocratic existing global order that those at the top of the power pyramid will literally stop at nothing to remove him from wrecking their long plotted prize of a one world government.

So in the face of this "crisis," what does the Republican Party establishment do? They bring their 2012 loser Mitt Romney out of moth balls to throw dirt in Trump's face... pretty impotent response that if anything, will only increase Trump support. Yet no doubt Mitt will be hoping and waiting from the wings of the convention as their go-to loser again.

Trump's populist candidacy is acting as a catalyst driving the rapid changing dynamics of the American population that for decades has been lulled asleep allowing the dark forces in power to deceptively enslave them. Trump has brought more people to register and vote in the state primaries than any other candidate in modern times. A Pew Research Center poll surveying the first dozen state primaries show that near twice as many Republican voters are participating than did four years ago. But prior to delving further into the desperado, “stop-Trump-at-all-cost” measures the powers-that-shouldn’t-be are now conjuring up, a brief look at where American citizens are currently at shapes what may unfold in coming months.

Clearly US citizens who are too often the last to know are starting to wake up from their stupefied doldrums and dumbed down ignorance. Results from another revealing poll released earlier this year found that for the second year in a row, Americans view their own federal government as their biggest problem, not the flatlined economy, unemployment, immigration or terrorism. Four out of five Americans feels “angry or frustrated” toward their government that increasingly views its own citizens as potential terrorists and extremist threats in its lockdown of our freedoms. Two decades ago most US citizens saw the feds as a friend, not an enemy. But as we move deeper into the twenty-first century, those numbers have largely reversed, especially amongst Independents and Republicans. 76% of Americans accurately believe that Washington’s run by a few big special interests strictly out for themselves rather than for the benefit of all people. In other words, Abraham Lincoln’s “of the people, by the people, for the people” long embedded as a defining principle of our democracy, did in fact “perish from the Earth,” by PNAC design right after the Mossad-neocons’ inside job of 9/11 .

People from not just the US but all Western countries are becoming increasingly fed up and angry with their federal governments, more aware of how they’ve insidiously encroached and stolen our privacy and freedoms and clearly do not represent our interests. In last weekend’s state elections German Chancellor Angela Merkel took a furious thrashing from her voting public after she’d welcomed with open arms over a million refugees into Germany. Increasingly the masses are waking up to the cold hard reality that their governments have been hijacked by treasonous puppets handpicked by the ruling elite and that national elections merely serve the deceitful purpose of offering the voting public an “illusion” of choice.

Trump’s appeal is tapping into this deepening divide between citizens and their oppressively dishonest and secretive government. Working class white males are his prototypical supporter, angry over feeling pushed around and disenfranchised by a government that doesn’t give a shit about them. The Trump campaign promise to make America great again and calling the political system broken due to selling out to special interests resonates with a growing number of Americans who believe Obama and Clinton have sold America out to foreign interests and the ruling elite.

Big business and big government are ruining the nation, and Trump’s volatile thunder is outcompeting the usual fluff and distraction fare that normally consumes the apathetic apolitical public. Even the latest antics of the Kardashian family, recent modern gladiator-big sports events and mesmerizing appeal of the latest electronic gadgetry the elite constantly serves up to preoccupy, hypnotize and otherwise deceive the dumbed down masses from paying attention to disturbing, elite orchestrated world events and machinations are no longer working as they always have in the past.

Meanwhile, instead of investing in the well-being of their own people living in Western nations, the elite has willfully destroyed the middle class, shrinking it to no longer be the majority population in America and refusing to maintain US infrastructure of highways and bridges as they literally crumble apart. Once the wealthiest city in the nation with its auto making empire, Detroit is another prime example of crumbling metropolitan infrastructure left to decay in apocalyptic ruin. With last year's headlines Detroit's water as a universal right denied its citizens for months at a time and this year nearby Flint's foul brown water forsaking human health of poor Americans, these disgraceful tragedies are the story of modern America. The globalists have willfully chosen to destroy America's once vibrant, robust manufacturing sector that supported the world's largest thriving middle class.

And now just as their climate change hoax with its global carbon tax presently being codified into UN law gains momentum towards global governance as a final step to formalized one world government, the elite's uninterrupted programmed brainwashing and unobstructed, accelerated planetary destruction suddenly finds itself in serious jeopardy if an unruly, potentially uncontrollable outsider like Donald Trump gets elected as the visibly most powerful man in the world.

In recent weeks we've been witnessing an unheard of stampeding backlash of desperate name-calling, slings and arrows, all blatant, over-the-top attempts to assassinate Trump's character, subdue, smear and silence his campaign, and even go so far as to plant the seed to assassinate him. A few weeks ago after New York Times columnist Ross Douthat in a tweet joked about how Trump's campaign will end, both alternative and mainstream media had a field day reacting and speculating over whether Donald Trump will become a KIA (killed in action) while running for president of the United States.

Before he's ever held an elected office, an ABC op-ed written by Australian John Keane is already calling the Donald a "demagogue and threat to American democracy." The only threat to our so called democracy already killed it, and that's oligarchy, something that one of six oligarch owned mega-media corps like ABC imparting its own biased, elitist special interest propaganda knows all about. The article drives home the common theme blaming Trump the candidate for violence displayed by the elitist Soros' hired "brown shirts" as a staged setup that's designed to then elicit demands to remove Trump's candidacy and then suggests almost as wishful thinking the all too familiar assassination theme:

If the elimination of the same candidate for high office happened illegitimately, for instance by means of assassination – a disturbing but not an unrealistic possibility in a country riddled with guns and a history of political violence – would this produce equally polarising effects that kill off the give-and-take ethic of elections, perhaps even pushing the whole country down the path of un-governability, towards law-and-order rule?

See how the line of thinking goes? It's not only sewing the seed but suggesting authoritarian control must be summoned to quell the coming unrest. This endgame scenario is exactly what the globalists are intentionally provoking and been preparing for a long time. ABC as part of the elite is engaging in more demonizing of the enemy as the pretext for increasing absolute tyrannical control... be it against Putin, Assad, Trump or violent Americans. Finally the author speaks in terms of how the elite's choice Hillary should deal with "taming the devils of demagogic power." This is how the MSM brainwash is spun in subtle and not so subtle ways 24/7.

The current and two former Mexican presidents have called Trump "the next Hitler." perhaps the ultimate name in demonology. Longtime historian James Thurber whose expertise is American presidents says that such vehement reactions from foreign leaders against a candidate still in the primary season are unprecedented. Trump's statements calling for a wall to be built at the Mexican border (despite the fact one already exists for miles in some places and that this sentiment is nothing new), after Obama's two term open border policy allowing any and all undocumented illegal aliens, including criminals and terrorists, to freely swarm across the border (not unlike the unvetted MENA refugees coming into both Europe and America), many US citizens feel exactly the same way as Trump. And it doesn't make anyone a racist to simply want the immigration laws already on the books to be practiced and enforced.

Trump is going for rhetorical overkill demanding the border wall be paid by Mexico, justifying it by citing the \$58 billion trade deficit and subsidies Mexico receives. The trade deficits to China and Japan also provide trade war cannonball fodder meant to even up the trade ratio. Trump's mission to balance the trade deficits includes offering incentives to US companies to return home, supply US jobs and increase US export products. With systemic offshore tax evasion and slave labor abroad driving the corporate profit motive, transnationals will stay short on loyalty to either the US or its people. But disenfranchised Americans like what they hear in Trump's promise to "make America great again," the same way that their "hope" was temporarily propped up by Obama until he got elected in 2008.

Indeed leaders from a host of other nations around the world have also expressed their upset toward the presidential frontrunner for what they regard as his racist views, among them Canada, Ireland, Britain, Germany, France, Turkey, Israel and Saudi Arabia. Of course these Trump critics are members of the same governments that per their globalists' "multiculturalism" agenda have welcomed over a million refugees that are now overloading the system and potentially destroying Europe. And Israel and Saudi Arabia as the very home of Wahhabi terrorism, they're about the only nations refusing to take in any refugees except for terrorists as two of the biggest supporters for both terrorism and the wars that created the migration crisis in the first place. And Turkey's provided the terrorist safe haven and training ground. So in view of the harm that their policies have caused, none of them should have anything to say about Trump.

China's party controlled Global Times chimed in, "The rise of a racist in the US political arena worries the whole world," adding how the West electing leaders brought the likes of Mussolini and Hitler to power. This cheap shot comes in retaliation for Trump stating that he wants to start levying tariffs on China's exported goods to America. The Communist Party leaders and state run media are having a good laugh at the "racist buffoon's" expense, gloating how democracy doesn't work. On another level, China should welcome a TPP-buster to the White House since the main thrust of that 12-nation Pacific trade agreement was designed to isolate and punish China by explicitly omitting it from membership. Trump has declared himself a nationalist vehemently opposed to all the globalist trade agreements like NAFTA and the latest TPP and TTIP that are the final nail in the coffin to America's national sovereignty. He knows they've taken away countless American jobs and has promised to undue them all if elected.

Even the globalist pope who pushed the climate change and global governance agenda slammed Trump last month insinuating he was "not Christian" for Trump's tough talk on immigration and wall building. Pope Francis supports the globalist agenda of mass migration regardless of negative consequences it's currently causing in Europe wedging a racial-religious divide that could also financially break the EU bank. When Trump got word about the pope's criticism, he said it's "disgraceful" a religious leader would make such a comment, quickly pointing out the hypocrisy that the Vatican City has a wall around it - built to keep the Muslims out. A day later the Vatican spokesman became the pope's apologist clarifying that the pope was not personally attacking Trump but was simply reacting to what he'd been told. Trump figured aloud that while Francis was visiting Mexico he'd been unduly influenced by Trump bashing for his "let's build a wall" in a case of tit for tat.

Earlier this month it was 60 national security experts' turn to take their licks against the Republican frontrunner. In a highly publicized open letter with chicken hawk and ISIS terrorist fraternizer John McCain, they all warned America that Trump would "diminish our standing in the world," "making us far less safe." Overflowing with fearmongering scare tactics, in their letter condemning Trump was found among the 60 signatures that of globalist Michael Chertoff's, former head of Homeland Security. As an attorney prior to 9/11 Chertoff once legally represented a terrorist arms smuggler while heading a Bush commission on terrorist financing. This is also the same man who while in charge of Homeland Security also owned the company that won the bid to radiate you and me every time we pass through TSA airport security checkpoints and the mastermind of the underwear bomber false flag at the Detroit airport on Christmas Day. Turns out the young Nigerian Muslim wannabe terrorist was carrying out his patsy role wearing nonexplosive underwear meant to be caught as a CIA staged publicity stunt just to scare Americans into worrying about flying terrorists again timed perfectly so Chertoff could make his deal selling his airport X-ray machines to every airport in the world – all in a day's work.

Speaking of work, it turns out that the NSA director Michael Hayden who just happened to let 9/11 occur under his watch of course also signed the attack Trump letter, he and Chertoff are now partners raking in big profits cashing in on their standup job as treasonous 9/11 conspirators peddling of all things a security consultant business. Hayden told the press that the CIA director could ignore Trump's torture statement because "it's against the law." Back when General Hayden was CIA director (2006-2009) under the Bush regime, it was against the law then too. But Obama not only looked the other way and let Hayden and his CIA torturers walk free for their crimes, per whistleblower John Kiriakou, Obama only continued the torture practice after signing an executive order making it unlawful on paper only, not unlike he's kind of going after the terrorists but in words only. So all the criminals went free but Kiriakou who let the world know about the torture and did two and a half years in federal prison for his good behavior courageously and morally trying to stop it. With that kind of miscarriage of justice operating every day in our crime cabal government, you can see that all these anti-Trump war "experts," are nothing but bumbling war criminals and convictable traitors who have yet to be held accountable for their heinous war crimes, much less possess even a smidgen of any credibility. But here's Donald's response to General Hayden's swipe:

I'll tell you how good our military is doing under Michael Hayden and people such as this. We've been fighting wars in the Middle East for 15 years, 18 years... for four or five trillion dollars, we don't know what we're doing, we don't know who we're fighting, we're arming people that we want on our side, we don't know who they are. When they take over a country they're worse than people they depose. Give me a break!
