

More on the Mid-term Election

by Miles Mathis

November 14, 2022

I guess you caught the black and white tiling above, behind Katie Hobbs in Phoenix.

I said I wouldn't have much to say about his one, but I do have a few more comments now that I have time to think about it. I have been watching it being spun from all angles, with Ron Paul claiming the lack of a Tea Party was the problem, Congressional Republicans blaming Mitch McConnell, Democrats blaming Trump, etc. Everyone but the Great Pumpkin is being blackwashed by some lamebrained theory now. But of course it isn't anyone's fault: or not anyone you have heard of. The election was scripted, so you can only blame the directors and scriptwriters. Those people are hidden, so you won't be able to finger them by watching the news or doing Google searches. All the search engines are currently slanted to vertical in favor of the Democrats, so good luck getting any real information. But we know who they are: the Phoenician Navy and their operatives. The Lords of the Isles. The Octopus. The hidden and not-so-hidden trillionaires running the world. Some call them the Deep State, but that is a double misnomer, since they aren't deep and they have nothing to do with a State. The world is fantastically shallow precisely because it is run by these shallow people.

Anyway, I would say the more interesting current question is why they stole it like they did. They have the technology to steal elections silently and effortlessly, with the touch of a button, leaving you no clue. Computers work fast, so they didn't need a week to steal this. They could have stolen the whole kit and kaboodle in .00001 seconds. And nothing happened here by accident. It took a week because they wanted it to take a week. It all looked highly suspicious because they wanted it to look highly suspicious. They wanted to be absolutely sure you knew this was stolen, even if you are a Democrat. They decided they hadn't gone far enough in the last steal, since they still had some election denier deniers. Some naive people in masks and ventilators still believed that their government wouldn't do that.

They could have done this without turning the lights off in the middle of the night in Nevada, but they chose to do it that way. They could have done this without making Kari Lake look like the most sinned-against person in the history of elections, but they chose to do it that way. They chose to turn off a third of the vote tabulators in red counties and refuse to extend voting hours. They chose to bring Lake on Tucker Carlson every night, 100% guaranteeing she would win, because it is part of the set-up. They could have done this without making Paul Pelosi look like a gay tweaker, but it was part of the set-up. The set-up for what? I am still not 100% sure myself, since—as I say—I have trouble getting in the heads of these people, thank the Muses. Odds are it is still to push us right, as I have been saying for several years. But it looks like they decided they wanted to drag it out a bit longer. They wanted to give Biden and the Dems another two years to piss everyone off. We weren't yet ground down quite far enough to suit the script, because they have to be sure we are so grateful when they come in and save us, we will never think to talk revolution again. We will be saved from the edge of the precipice: from starvation and civil war and hordes of drag queens invading our living rooms and nuclear holocausts. They probably hope we will even agree to be pincushions for their fake vaccines, as long as we don't have to read about the end of the world anymore.

Another reason they are drawing this out is that IT IS JUST SO DARN MUCH FUN. . . for them. You have to remember these people are sadistic pigs, and their greatest joy beyond telling a constant stream of ridiculous lies is watching you run around in fear responding to them. They can't get enough of it. This has been a thrill for them beyond any good day at the races, and you can see the glee on their faces. Klaus Schwab has been in the throes of a giddy orgasm for the past three years, as he watches you gobble anti-depressants and lose sleep and otherwise choke on his black aura. Same for Bill Gates and Anthony Fauci and Gavin Newsom and Justin Trudeau and thousands of others. These people don't care that the dark drug is turning them into demons, all they care about is that they get their fix. Like the Fentanyl addicts, they go in knowing it is a guaranteed nightmare for them, but that just makes them rush in all the faster.

And it is that fact that is the real danger here. Once they get started turning the thumbscrews on you, it is hard for them to stop, even if they had meant to stop. They may have originally planned to revive the Republican party by installing Trump and have him preside over a mini-Renaissance of the Reagan sort, but once they saw how bent out of shape the Dems got, they couldn't resist spinning that up for all it was worth. After watching the Dems writhe in pain on the floor for four years, they thought to themselves, hey, let's do the same thing to the Republicans for a couple of years. We are wasting 50% of the population. We can grind the Republicans for a few years and it won't make any difference in the long run, as long as we raise them back up later. Let's have some fun!

Maybe Steve Bannon and Steve Pieczenik were right: maybe they had planned to tank Biden after a couple months, or after a couple of years, but once they got in, they changed their minds. For one thing, they could see that it was far better to let Biden take most of the blame for the vaccines, since he would go down with the liberals when they fell. History would then blame the vaccines on the liberals. The entire left side of American politics would die a permanent death on the vaccines, on transgenderism, on pedophilia, on inflation, on crop failures, and on immigration. Yes, the Democratic party would live on, to guarantee a continued two-party script, but it would emerge in 2024 or 2028 far to the right, to compete with the Republicans. Same thing that happened in 1992 with Bill Clinton, but much much moreso.

But not just yet. As I say, once the ghouls got into 2020, seeing how much more satisfying all the fear was, way beyond 2016, they couldn't quit. And when 2022 rolled round, it was like “Please, Daddy, two more years! Sure, Trump is old and aging, but we have DeSantis. If he falls off a boat or something, we can promote Kari Lake. Those people are all just actors, so it doesn't matter. We could promote Lassie or Shamu if we needed to. It doesn't matter. What matters is THE FIX. We have tasted the chaos and we like it. The old script will still be there once we come down from the high.”

So that's where I think we are. What happens next? I don't know. I am not a prophet, I am just a guy with a body and a functioning brain, trying to solve problems instead of create them. But I have to say I think the LEAST likely thing is a total collapse into barbarism, like some sort of Mad Max future. That is just part of the fear porn. I highly doubt you are going to need all your prepper gear. There is way too much know-how in the human population and far too many competent people—even now—for that to happen. The infrastructure worldwide is far too widespread and advanced, and it will not just disappear. It is not crumbling now, it is being actively attacked; but that can easily be repaired. The solutions to most of our problems are pretty simple, and you could pick any one of millions of people and put them in charge and they would come up with those solutions. Which just leaves us with the question of who is going to mop up after those currently in charge either self-destruct or are forcibly removed. Will it be another set of Phoenicians, or will it be Revolutionaries?

I am sorry to say the odds are very high it will be another set of Phoenicians, ones who will have hopefully learned something from the current situation. I say that because the Phoenicians have so successfully trapped the rest of us in the lower levels for so long, few of us have the gumption for Revolution. A few years ago I said we didn't have the cojones to take over a local post office, and though things have changed since then, they haven't changed as much as I would have liked. There has been a quick awakening over the past five years, and especially the last two. Maybe the next two will continue that acceleration.

The Phoenicians don't have their hand on that pulse—since the dark drug has ruined all sense of touch—and I have to admit that I have trouble taking that pulse as well, due to my isolation. I am always surprised when I read comments sections online, as I have very little desire to do much of that. I did trip across this one at Youtube yesterday, since it was pushed on me for some reason. It is Michael Shermer promoting a new book. To say that he is ratioed in comments would be imprecise, since I didn't read one positive one. He is absolutely crushed. To have a ratio requires you have at least one positive comment, to create the fraction. What we see in comments is not just people who aren't fooled by Shermer, but people who seem on to the entire conjob of modern life. They are educated and lucid and angry and witty. And they are at Youtube, which makes it all the more surprising: I had gotten used to seeing such things only in my own inbox, from my brilliant readers. Perhaps these are mostly my readers, hiding behind pseudonyms. After all, I have attacked Shermer like no one else.

At any rate, these things give one hope, and I was already not without it, so perhaps people like us will be the ones to pick up the pieces. Perhaps not enough Phoenicians will survive the fall to regroup. I have outed enough of them and given my readers so many ways to spot them, they may find it impossible to regain any trust. We will see.

In related news, we just saw Elon Musk saying Sam Bankman-Fried set off his bullshit meter, giving me my biggest laugh of the month. Elon Musk, a wholly manufactured person, calling bullshit on someone else. Rich. I seem to remember Trump saying the same thing about Elon, which is rich for the same reason.

I have to admit I had never heard of Bankman-Fried before a couple of days ago, but his whole bio looks like the same sort of trash as Musk's. Even his name looks scripted, being way too on-the-nose. A top crypto guy named Banker-Torched? He allegedly made $26 billion from nothing in less than four years. If you believe that you will believe anything. Notice they can't do math at Wiki. We are told he had $10.5 billion in October, then lost 94% of his value, dropping to $991.5 million. Except that $991.5 million isn't 6% of $10.5 billion. It is 6% of $16.5 billion. Maybe that's why these bankers can't avoid bankruptcy: they can't do multiplication or division. Also notice that he previously worked for the Centre for Effective Altruism in Oxford and Berkeley. Get the joke! Do you really think any altruistic people make $26 billion in three years? Also notice the initials are CEA, just a nudge from CIA. That would be the Centre for Ineffective Altruism, which would be more accurate.

I encourage you to read the Wikipedia page of CEA. It tells you absolutely nothing. We are told the 2021 budget was $28 million, for instance, but are not told how it is funded or where it goes. Apparently to conferences, forums, and websites. It is alleged to be about philanthropy, but we have seen in the past what that really means: getting tax write-offs for laundering money through bogus charities. Not surprisingly, Bankman-Fried continued to do that through FTX and Alameda, funneling millions to the Democratic National Committee in what is already being called by many a form of money laundering. Given what I told you above, you should ask if FTX was imploded on purpose to further damage the Democratic party. The timing in that regard is suspicious by itself. This looks like something created to snowball into something much larger, and I wouldn't be surprised if it ended up including the Bidens, Clintons, and Pelosis. Just a guess. But if the Dems end up stealing the House as well, I don't see how any of that is going to be investigated. Maybe the Washington Post will ride in to do the deed. Hah-hah.

And did anyone else before me point this out? FTX. Erase the bars on the T. What do you have? FIX. A guy named Cooked-Banker was head of a company named FIX? C'mon people, get the joke!

One person who seemed to get the joke before it hit the wall is Jim Cramer at NBC, who was calling SBF “the JPMorgan of crypto”. This was obviously a talking point fed to him through his earpiece, but this time Cramer wasn't really buying it. Unlike the others you have seen parroting that, Cramer pushed back, though most missed it. Even Tucker Carlson missed it when playing the tape. Cramer asks, “Is he the JP Morgan or the Jay Gould?” His comrade pretends to fail to follow him, so he continues, “Is he Vanderbilt? Is he Harriman? Is he a Credit Mobilier Scandal?” At that, his comrade rushes in to cover this last part, asking “Is he Carnegie?” But it is those yellowed words you should key on, since Cramer is asking if SBF is a major fraud. The Credit Mobilier Scandal was one of the biggest cons on taxpayers in the 19th century, where Union Pacific bilked the treasury for billions in today's dollars. Wikipedia is still running misdirection for those involved 150 years later, I suppose to cover for living Goulds, Vanderbilts and others.

Also, if you haven't heard Bankman-Fried talk, you need to. There is something seriously wrong with him. Although he is only 30, he shakes when he talks like Katherine Hepburn. He has a tiny little voice with a lisp, and he looks to me like another one chosen to stir our minds. You can't get anywhere in this rigged world, but this mental defective can make $26 billion in three years by promising to give it all away and promoting philanthropy. All he needed to do that was being born Jewish and a couple of parents teaching at Stanford Law School. Apparently he has been living in some Romper Room for the retarded children of rich Jews in the Bahamas. When he isn't sleeping in a mass crib there and sucking on a community pacifier he is taking meetings with Biden and Zelensky, where they all huddle around the lava lamp and play League of Legends. FTX investor Mike Novogratz has claimed that FTX was a common tale, led by a “charismatic guy in bermuda shorts and floppy hair who charmed the 20 best investors in the world”. Except for one thing: Bankman-Fried has zero charisma and negative charm. These investors weren't fooled by Bankman-Fried, so they must be in on it. Like all the others, this story is completely manufactured. There must still be some hidden back door, so that this money ended up where it was intended to end up. It wasn't “lost” or stolen, they just want you to think it was.

We saw George Stephanopoulos on ABC ask—with a straight face—was this a mistake or a crime? Really George? Yeah, I'm sure it was just a computer error. A number put in the wrong column and $26 billion went up in smoke.

In 2021 SBF was promising to give away $10 billion over the next decade, but I guess that won't be happening now. What a shock, right: the charities won't end up with a dime, because the big guys stole it in some insider conjob. We know where a small part went: he gave away all the real cash on hand (about $50 million) to the Democratic Party, so that they could bribe local officials all over the country. But where did the other $25.5 billion end up? We are supposed to believe it was just funny money I guess, based on fake derivatives or bad bets, but a better guess is that someone was on the right side of that bad bet, making it a good bet. In other words, this was another big steal.

SBF allegedly has a undergraduate degree in physics from MIT, but that couldn't have done him much good at Jane Street Capital, where he was already working in his junior year. At age 24 he started his own quantitative trading firm, as you do, though we aren't told where his capital or clientele came from. Why would anyone trust this freak to start with? His bio is replete with the usual numerology, including his crash which of course happened on November 8, or 11/8, aces and eights, Chai. So it all looks like another phantom to me. A mirage not just to create a money laundering channel, since the big banks and CIA should have been able to keep that under wraps no matter what. This was created to implode just when it did. Why? I guess we will soon find out.

This ridiculous person is also part of that joke:

How old is she? Fourteen? Bankman-Fried took her with him when he left Jane Street, though she was just a 22-year-old junior trader. Just the sort of person you appoint to be CEO of a new company. Her father is MIT economics professor Glenn Ellison. Related to Larry Ellison? We aren't told. I am sure they will deny it, but I will assume she is until proven otherwise. Her mother is a Fisher, so she is Jewish as well. This is Operation Chaos.

Glenn Ellison's protege Gary Gensler (Jewish, of course) was nominated by Biden to be head of the SEC. But that's just another coincidence right? Some are already admitting these autistic kids are just fronts and fall guys for someone else, though no one has figured out who yet. Bitboy and Infowars have suggested Dan Friedberg is one of those people, and that video is up on youtube—meaning it is likely a decoy and dead-end. Not that Friedberg is not a cog here, but he is nowhere near the top. According to my short and simple research, it is probably much deeper than that. All we have to do is go back to the CEA and see where that came from. It comes out of the Global Priorities Institute at Oxford, which was started by Isaiah Berlin, among others. Who was he? He was known as a political theorist, being Founding President of Wolfson College, Oxford, and President of the British Academy. He won the Jerusalem Prize, getting you started. More importantly, he came from an extremely wealthy family of Russian timber merchants, directly descended from Shneur Talman, founder of Chabad Hasidim. Although Chabad is called an Orthodox Jewish dynasty, the most important one, it actually caters to secularized Jews worldwide. It not only has intellectual and kabbalistic underpinnings, it is known for its scary Messianic ideology and aggressive tactics. Sort of like a more hidden and more spooky ADL, with a leader claiming to be the Messiah. Their last admitted head, Rabbi Schneerson, was thought by many followers to be the Messiah, and though he died in 1994, they claim not to have chosen a successor. If you ask who leads Chabad now, you are told no one does. Since that isn't believable, we may assume they have taken the leadership underground.

Added November 20: since this paper came out, Wikipedia has deleted the direct link from CEA to the Global Priorities Institute, sending you instead to the similar [Future of Humanity Institute, also at Oxford. That way they can let the fake person Elon Musk take the heat, since he is listed as a primary funder. Still, it is funny to see Musk enter here, since we started the joke with Musk calling bullshit on Bankman-Fried. Dig a little deeper, and we find Musk funding Bankman-Fried under layers and layers of darkness. And things aren't really going like you had hoped at Twitter, are they? Did you really think Musk was going to ride in and save the day there? No, he has not only continued to deny free speech to Alex Jones, he has confirmed that he, Elon Musk, believes Sandy Hook is real. So much for the claims of high IQ, independence, or other white-hattery.]

Now we just need the link to MIT. One of them is John Broome, also of the Global Priorities Institute, also with links to Stanford, where Bankman-Fried's parents are. Another was Amartya Sen, linking us to MIT, Cornell, and Berkeley, specializing in famines and decision theory. He was married to Emma Rothschild, who also links us to MIT and Harvard. She was a board member of the United Nations Foundation. So we are finding the usual suspects behind Bankman-Fried.

We also find A. C. Grayling at the Global Priorities Institute, and he gives us a link to the World Economic Forum, where he is a Fellow.

Also see the Warnocks, especially the Baroness Warnock, who happened to be the granddaughter of billionaire banker Felix Schuster. She was not only involved in this Global Priorities Institute, she was bad news across the board, also being involved in experimentation on human embryos.

I found that these people also have many hooks into Rutgers, just so you know.

Today Jeff Bezos is also promising to give away most of his fortune, just like Bankman-Fried. So I guess you see where that is going. And in case you haven't heard, Bezos is now on PEDs, denying he is on PEDs:

He is claiming to have gained five neck sizes just by doing barbell shrugs and drinking Orgain shakes, I guess. Still only 5'6" in shoes, though. I wonder what the nametag is for? With his picture on it? Is that really necessary? Where can he possibly be where people don't know who he is? Maybe it is for his own benefit, in case he has a vaccine/PED event and forgets who he is.

I guess next we will see Biden ripped and shaved, wearing a tight sleeveless shirt to his pretend Oval Office addresses. It won't be so special then, will it Brad?